This prof is one of the absolute finest Dickinson has to offer. When I speak to students & families in admissions about our great professors O'Connell is always at the top of my mind as a example of what Dickinson claims its profs to be. If I had not taken this class, I would only have had one class with O'Connell. However, that one class itself was already enough to put O'Connell as one of my most memorable profs at DSON.

Comments on the Instructor (questions 10-15):

Professor O'Connell is very passionate about this subject and is an engaging, energetic instructor. It was a bit difficult for him to retain prolonged discussion, though, because of the class size + how extensive his ^{work} were.

16. Describe the classroom learning atmosphere and what contributed to it.

Response to question 16:

The class was lecture-based but had some elements of discussion throughout. I noticed that a lot of the same people contributed the most often, which kind of made it uncomfortable for others.

17. What suggestions might you give the instructor about teaching this course in the future?

Response to question 17:

Give students more time to synthesize questions! They could be a bit extensive, which meant that we would need more time to think them over in order to answer them.

In a class about religion & politics, I was surprised that we spent no time discussing (or even acknowledging) the anti-semitic shooting in Pittsburgh that happened this semester. I was shaken by the attack & would have appreciated an academic analysis of the context & ramifications.
